NO. 15

GLEICHEN, ALBERTA, WEDNESDAY JUNE 30, 1937

SUBSCRIPTION $2.00 PER YEAR

COUNCIL SET 59 MILL RATE FOR THE YEAR 1937

The town council have been active lately and have had two meetings. Below is a short summary of what they have done:

A new contract between the Town and Sharpy's Theatre Supplies was accepted. The contract called for the rental of the Community Hall to Mr. Sharpy for $80 a month and he will give two shows a week Thursdays and Saturdays. A report of the inspector of theatres on the hall was read. The following recommendations were included in the report. The cabinet door to be fitted with stronger springs; lamp inside cabinet to be enclosed directly under spilling plate; fire extinguishers to be cleaned, re-gassed and re-charged. Messrs. McConnell and Michael moved that the matters referred to in the inspector's report be attended to by the fire committee.

Matters pertaining to the irrigation water at the cemetery will be left in the hands of the public works committee.

Councillors McConnell and Deshayes carried a motion that the following rates of pay for men working for the town be put into effect: digging ditches 40c an hour; general work 40c an hour; man and team 50c an hour.

A complaint had been made in connection with ashes and tin cans being deposited in the lanes of the town. The secretary was instructed to write and advise those concerned that this is contrary to by-law and must be stopped. E. J. Blumman was reinstated as duties of a life-guard at the swimming pool from 2 in the afternoon until 10 at night. He will also water the trees in that area. Likewise he will keep an eye on the community hall and keep it in shape for picture shows, dances, etc.

Mr. C. Lewis advised the council that it was the intention of the Provincial Command of the Canadian Legion to apply for a Cross of Sacrifice for the soldiers cemetery in Gleichen. It was intended to remove the clay off the soldiers graves and put it down to grass, and asked the council to consider particularly the placing of water at the east end of the cemetery; that water would be available in order to give proper attention to the plots, also that that road be graded and strips be placed on either side so that trees could be planted next spring. The councillor advised Mr. Lewis that this matter would be given consideration.

The Texas Oil Co. wrote asking for information regarding bringing a water and sewer to their property line should the company decide to make the connection. There was some discussion, and it was estimated that the cost of this undertaking would be approximately $85 for the water and sewer complete to the property line. It was thought that it would be good business for the town to make this connection, accordingly Councillor Menard moved and Councillor Thompson seconded a motion: the utilities be extended to the Texas Oil Co. property line. The other councillors agreed to the proposition.

A discussion arose in connection with properties town having been improved which improvements were not reflected in the assessment roll. On motion of Messrs. Michael and McDonald it was decided that the department be asked to give special permission to impose a tax on such improvements where same existed that had been omitted when the assessment was made.

The secretary read a letter from the Board of Trade in connection with the planting of trees on a block of vacant town lots in order to beautify the town. The councillors appreciated very much the efforts of the Board of Trade to make the town a better place to live in but owing to the fact that the town is financially embarrassed at present they could not do anything.

It was reported that cars parking in front of the Community Hall were damaging trees. This was ordered attended to and the cars will bump their bumpers against a less resilient obstacle. Some years ago a farmer bought a house in town and now he wishes to move it to the country, but as the taxes are several years in arrears the town fathers said nay—at least until

FARM WOMEN ARRANGE FOR ANNUAL PICNIC

A meeting of the U.F.W.A. ladies was held at the home of Mrs. Henry Sammons on Thursday June 2nd, with 18 members and two visitors present. Roll call was answered by "What I do With my Spare Moments".

Much discussion took place regarding the annual picnic to be held on July 22nd. Arrangements were made as follows: Mrs. Alex Buckley and Mrs. R. Umbreit were appointed to take charge of the lunch and Mrs. McLeay on the sports committee.

As Mrs. Day will not be able to attend this year a new publicity secretary was elected, Mrs. McLeay falling heir to the task.

The sick committee reported that Mrs. Wilson, Mrs. R. Koefoed and Mrs. Day were improving. A report of the Junior delegate, George Burns, of University week II, Edmonton proved most interesting and is certainly a credit to the juniors in bringing home such splendid reports.

All were pleased to see one of the young members back again for a short visit, Miss E. H. Allsop of Calgary City, California.

A delicious lunch was served by the hostesses and her helpers and was thoroughly enjoyed. The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. O. Calkins on July 8th.

A CORRECTION

It seems to be the mistaken opinion of several people that the University Week at Edmonton for young people entirely a U.F.A. project but this is not so. It is an opportunity supported by the government as is also the Summer School at Ojda. This is open to all young people from the farm between the ages of 16 and 25 and the University Extension Department do their best to educate and inspire these young people to better citizenship in the short time they have at their disposal. Their efforts are very worthy indeed, and the young people return full of enthusiasm and conduct their own business. But these are not all of the present. Any club, community, or organization of any kind may sponsor the sending of as many young people as they like and many young people go on their own for an excellent holiday for one having been there is always a desire to return.

True, the Junior U.F.A. avail themselves of this excellent gathering of young people and one day out of the those delegates which have been sent by U.F.A. Locals are allowed to meet in conference and conduct their own business. But these are not all of the present. Any club, community, or organization of any kind may sponsor the sending of as many young people as they like and many young people go on their own for an excellent holiday for one having been there is always a desire to return.

We wish here to correct a statement of The Call that Miss Verona Hayes went to attend the Junior U.F.A. She was sent as a representative of Meadowbrook Ladies Social Credit Group and certainly returned with many excellent ideas to help in the activities of the group. It would certainly be a good investment for any organization's money to sponsor the sending of some young person to this University Week which is held each year at Edmonton under the direction of the best professors.

MRS. C. NELSON.

The taxes were paid. The mill rate for this year was set at 59 mills, made up as follows: municipal 30; school 14 and social service 6.

LADIES S. C. GROUP HEAR REPORT OF MISS V. HAYES

Last Thursday the Meadowbrook Ladies Social Credit Group met at the home of Mrs. Erford. The roll call "Did You Know" was answered by sixteen members and friends. The meeting regrettably very much the absence of Pres. Mrs. R. B. Hayes who is detained in Calgary for a few weeks on account of sickness. All wished her a speedy recovery. Several items of business were dealt with.

It was decided to try and get Mrs. Gostie, M.L.A. of Calgary to speak at the next meeting on July 8th to be held at the home of Mrs. McPherson.

SCHOOL BOARD CHANGE PROGRAM OF STUDIES

The school board held a couple of meetings this month.

One of the main things discussed were the changes in the program of studies for the coming fall and vacancies on the teaching staff.

Mr. J. Gorrill, the principal, was present and explained in detail the program of studies outlined in the program.

The matter of including junior business in the curriculum was discussed and it was suggested that this subject might be included in the place of oral French.

A discussion arose as to the possibility of the present grades XI and XII being able to take the junior business studies, and Mr. Gorrill explained that arrangements would be made for these grades to sit in when this subject was being taught, but this would be entirely at the student's own wish and responsibility.

It was finally moved by S. E. Dace and seconded by W. F. Ferguson that the principal be asked to rearrange the courses so that junior business be put on the curriculum in the place of Oral French. This was carried unanimously.

A resignation had been presented by Miss L. M. Morton, teacher of grades VII and VIII which was accepted.

The inspector's reports on two rooms were read. The reports were very satisfactory and were filed.

All the teachers were re-engaged or the coming term. It was decided to advertise for another teacher to take the place of Miss Morton, who had resigned.

The secretary reported on tuition fees collected and stated there were still some old arrears to be collected. The secretary was instructed to see the Department of Education regarding school fees for pupils attending high school and who were residing on the Indian Reserve and C. J. R. right-of-way.

There was some discussion regarding repairs to the school buildings. Some repairs had been done during the Easter holidays. Out there were some others which could have to be done before school opened in September. Trustees W. F. Ferguson and P. N. Dace, will attempt to take care of these repairs, also the watering of the shrubs and cleaning up generally.

Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Brown of Calgary spent Sunday in Gleichen visiting their sons Tom, Campbell and Robert. Mr. Brown spent most of his time entertaining his grand children while picnicking along the banks of the Bow river.

Whether statements made a few weeks ago and afterwards contradicted concerning the immorality of high school students were true or not it is well known by all who go about with their eyes open among chastity is all prevalent among both young and old not only in Calgary but in almost every town and city and the ultimate cure will be found only when both old and young are prepared to accept the teaching of the Master as suggested in the above beatitude.

A committee was appointed to take charge of sports on Children's Day, July 22nd.

Miss Verona Hayes then gave a very interesting report on her trip to Edmonton. One would almost imagine they had attended University Week with her. Miss Verona Hayes assisted by Miss Ralphone Hayes and Mrs. Ruth Holland then presented a short play which had been presented by the Dramatics Class at the University. This was thoroughly enjoyed and the group felt they were already drawing dividends on what they had spent in assisting Miss Hayes to attend the school.

A bounteous lunch was then served by the hostess and her assistants.

MR. AND MRS. J. EGLESE HONORED BY FELLOW CITIZENS

A community banquet in honor of Mr. and Mrs. James Eglese and Teddy was held in the Community Hall in Gleichen on the 26th. Approximately 80 citizens representative of all walks of life in the Gleichen district attended to do honor to the Eglese family who have been resident in the district for a considerable number of years. Expressions of regret at their leaving and good wishes for the future were given in speeches by Rev. Mr. House, J. Black, A. R. Yates and L. Michael.

During their residence in the Gleichen district both Mr. and Mrs. Eglese have been unsparing in their efforts to assist community undertakings, and their help will be particularly missed in musical circles. As a further token of respect Mr. and Mrs. Eglese were presented with handsome travelling bags. Mr. Beach made the presentation and also presided at the banquet. Others who assisted in the program were Mrs. Bell, Mrs. Downey and Col. Lewis. After the banquet a dance was enjoyed the music being supplied Bremner's Orchestra.

Much progress is being made building Pete Deshayes new garage and rest room. This rest room is something Gleichen has needed for years for passing tourists and no doubt with the classy place Pete is erecting he will get a large share of the through traffic.

REPAIR FOR CALGARY STAMPEDE AND EXHIBITION

Preparations are practically complete for the Calgary Exhibition and Stampede to be held July 5th to 10th. The show is to be opened on Monday afternoon by Hon. J. G. Gardiner, Dominion Minister of Agriculture, and His Excellency, the Governor-General and Lady Tweedsmuir will be the guests of the Exhibition on the two days. His Excellency will present the prizes to the children at Friday morning's live stock review and the prizes to the Stampede champions, Saturday night.

Several special features have been arranged for this year's show. There will be two magnificent fireworks programs instead of one as in the past, one will be presented Monday night and one on Saturday night.

Three thousand dollars has been added to the live stock prizes and twelve hundred dollars to the Stampede prizes. There are thirteen hundred live stock entries, comprising 497 horses, 528 cattle, 174 sheep and 92 swine entries. These come from North Dakota, British Columbia, six stations in Ontario, Manitoba, two stations in Saskatchewan and the balance from Alberta. This is an increase of fifty over last year's entries. Entries in the other departments are well in excess of those of 1936.

The Stampede parade will start promptly at 10 o'clock on Monday morning with twenty-three bands comprising 975 musicians, the largest number of musicians ever to appear in one program in Alberta) interspersed between different sections. The parade will be led by members of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police followed by an eighty-one piece massed band. The Logan City High School Band of 65 boys, who have won several championships, are coming all the way to Calgary to take part in the parade. The Blackfoot Tribal Band of Browning, Montana, will lead the Indian section.

A most interesting novelty will appear in the parade for the first time the Mechanical Jumbo Elephant, just as natural as life, with a howl on its back for the princess and controlled by a mahout. Its inside conceals a radio which brings messages to the audience as it proceeds.

The Stampede events with between five and six hundred entries and the best stock ever secured for the Calgary Stampede will again provide plenty of thrills for the patrons.

Running races will be held during the six days. There will be morning street displays, Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday mornings and the famous chuck wagon race will form part of each evening's program. Wm. H. Martin of Maple Creek, Sask. will give a demonstration with his wonderful sheep dogs during the Friday morning program.

The platform attractions are again to be provided by Earnie Young, the outstanding Chicago producer, who presented such a wonderful program last year. This year's production is known as the "Cavalcade of Hits", a musical show with beautiful ensemble numbers, such as, "Hungarian Episode", "An Indian Fantasy", "A Rhapsody in Pink", "Vanity", concluding with a beautiful "Bird of Paradise" number. Interspersed between these numbers are the best vaudeville acts to be found in the world, headed by Joe Jackson, the star clown, whom many Orpheum vaudeville patrons will be glad to see again.

Special railway and bus fares will be in force of single fare for return trip from Saskatchewan, Alberta and British Columbia mainland points. Tickets and rooms may be reserved at the booths in front of the C.P.R. station.

CHAPTER VII.—Continued

As I lay stretching myself on the broad of my back after the cozy sleep of the night, the thought of the schoolmaster came to scatter the fairness of the morning. So, with an old broom on my shoulder and much fear and trembling in my heart, I set out bright and early to make a call on Mr. Michael Hughes, the local schoolmaster. With any ugly, hard job on hand, I have always figured that nothing must be gained by just sitting at home and waiting for the burning up daylight. The ground was frozen hard.

A few years before, the settlers had got together and put up a log schoolhouse on the townline, a tidy step down from the Marshall farm. One foot-iceless itinerant after another had turned his hand to school teaching, and earned a few shillings the quarter for each scholar who trudged down to his classes to get a little learning. But bright shillings being a scarce commodity in Mono, the schoolmaster shifted round weekly from family to family, fetching the cream of local gossip with him, and getting beat and board to eat the trifling cash that came his way. And at the table, the housewives usually found that the man of letters was a man of parts. The younger children were somewhat regular in their attendance, but, in the winter months, few winter time, few clumsy youths as a rule went also to the local school to learn to write and figure. Many of them had hair showing on the face, and the diseases were common among them for which scratching and pinching are the principal remedies. They came packed with a loutish devilment that sometimes overtaxed the strength and courage of the schoolmaster. One after another the teachers had been beaten up and had left for other fields of effort.

In the spring of 1846, Michael Hughes had drifted into the township, out of nowhere seemingly, and had tackled the job of teaching the Mono school. Big, the tall, lank figure of a man, neither young nor old, but of five and thirty, which is, of course, a sore old age to the mind of any child. His body was as limber as a gad and as supple as the wind. His features were cleanly chiseled on fine, yet robust lines, and a soft, slitten-like beard hid a mouth that was gentle, even to weakness. He thrashed civility under the skins of the big yokels that fall; and so established himself securely as master of the school. Old Hickory Mick earned himself a terrible reputation among the plow boys of Mono as a disciplinarian and wielder of the cane.

The business of boarding around as a nuisance to the farmers' wives did not fit in with his notion of comfortable living; and the master promptly solved the problem by moving into a small log house that had recently been built on a curiously steep barren hard by to the west of the school. There was little household trumpery about, but sufficient for his purpose. The parents of his pupils paid most of the school fees with food and firing. The steepness of his land was such that no plowman has ever turned any of it over. Years after, the little plot was occupied by Jimmie Buchanan, a cobbler who kept bees; but in the master's time it was covered by a scrubby growth and crowned by a gnarled old thorn-tree. Folk called his place Whistling Hill after Knock-na-fedaile, in County Down. All the children knew the master was a gentle place, and greatly haunted by the little people. One fallow evening, three separate passers-by saw lights, like tiny fishes, dancing on the hillside below his cabin; and there were soft, piping sounds also heard about the place, like the small, thin whistle a drake gives after ducking himself in a pond.

I found the one door of the schoolmaster's house slightly ajar; and, sticking my head in, I saw the man's back as he stooped over the fire-place, cooking his breakfast in a big black, frying pan. With the broom still clutched in my hands, I stole in, and quietly sat down on a short log. I kept my mouth tight shut to hold my heart from popping out.

In a moment's time, Old Hickory Mick swung around, holding the long-handled spider aloft. He gave his head a startled jerk in the air as he spied me sitting there. He looked like to eat me all up without a grain of salt.

"You little red-headed son of Beller!" he shouted at me, "how dare you set foot in my house without knocking at the door?"

"Oh, sir!" I said, "that's not my name. I'm Paddy Slater, sir; and I've come down," said I, "to look after things at the school, and to rid up your dirty old cabin, sir."

The man froze me with a hard stare.

"By the hole of my coat!" he exclaimed, after thinking the thing over. "Who gave you instructions to come down here?"

"Oh, sir!" said I, "it was Mrs. Marshall, sir." She said I might stay at her place if I'd rid up your dirty old cabin, sir."

"There was a pause."

"Are you frightened?" the man asked me, screwing his mouth up with a wry smile.

"Yes, sir," said I, "I'm scared stiff you will beat me with a stick. But she said I was to rid up your dirty old cabin, sir. So I just upped and ined."

"Well, Paddy," the man told me after a further pause. "The Greeks call a brave word for a lad who faces a danger, yet strolls out to meet it."

"Yes, sir," said I.

"And speaking of words," he thundered at me, "it's a careless dirty old cabin it is to call my house a dirty old cabin!"

"Yes, sir," said I.

"It's not an old, dirty cabin, I'll have you know, because it is only recently built."

"And it is not a dirty cabin, I'll have you know, because it is sweet and clean—though perhaps a trifle untidy."

"Yes, sir," said I.

"And it is not a cabin at all, I'll have you know, because it has boards on the floor."

"Yes, sir," said I.

"He shook the pan at me.

"I keep a stick to beat careless little lads with," said I.

"Yes, sir," said I.

"And I'll have you know, no person comes into my house like an old sow rooting for swill," he told me.

"Get out the door," he ordered me, speaking very stern like, "and come in with your manners on."

So I upped and outed; and then I knocked good and loud on his door.

"Oh! good morning," said the man to me, "I thought you would have run away."

"Good morning, sir," said I, touching my cap, "my name is Paddy Slater, sir; Mrs. Marshall sent me down to do you little services, sir."

"Come in, you unclucky penny," said the master with a snort, chuckle, "come in; and in the absence of anything better at hand, sit yourself down on that short log."

"Very kind of Mrs. Marshall, indeed," said he. "She is a very charming lady, indeed, is Mrs. William Marshall."

"Yes, sir," said I. "I'd die for her," said I.

"And perhaps," he continued, "you might like the price of your trouble for coming down so early in the morning. How would you like a taste of these delectable little trout?" he enquired, poking the pan under my nose.

"Oh, sir," said I, "I am a growing boy."

"Very neatly put," the man remarked.

So clearing the corner of the table, Mr. Hughes used a sheet of The Globe newspaper as a cover for two plates.

"Ah! ha!" he told me, "you see how we do things among the hills of Mono."

The globe is as round as a ball, yet we dine on the globe.

In this bachelor's hall.

"Draw to draw to!" he urged me, "and salt and pepper to your taste and liking."

It was a case of heel, toe, down they go—heads and all.

"If you dine often with me, Paddy Slater, you will soon become a man of parts," the master informed me, "and to start your education, let me instruct you the sun speckled beauties as these were first cooked by Venus with her own hands on the hills of Helicon; whence comes the pretty legend that a mess of them works a love charm."

Michael reddened his pipe in the ashes; and the man blew tiny smoke rings as we sat talking and conversing together. It was surprising to Paddy to be sitting there in the company of the great man without a care or trouble in the world.

On a sudden, the master leapt up. "Let us be off on our way to the school in the name of God!" he exclaimed.

And the master and I then set off to fix the fire at the schoolhouse. He was in fine spirits, but was singing a mournful song:

MY COLLEEN RUE

But drearily and wearily
The snow is drifting by;
And dourly and wearily
It hears my lonely sigh.
Far from wild Niagara's roar
To Inn's sparkling wave of blue,
To the hostess in the fairy glen,
And gentle Colleen Rue.

He was a spirited man, and as straight as a candle. To keep up with him, I took grown-up strides beside him, thinking I was now myself quite a man of parts.

It was in this wise that I fell in with Old Hickory Mick, and I served the master faithfully for the next five years. I was the only confidant the solitary man had; and he opened his heart and mind freely to me because he knew I liked him. Yet, to the day we buried him at Centreville, his past remained a mystery so far as I was concerned. My own fancy has always been that Michael Hughes had clean forgotten it himself. Everything in his life story stood out sharp and clear back to a jaunting car ride in Dublin town; but at that point the thread of memory seemed to have broken. The man brought a wealth of learning and personality with him from behind that veil of oblivion; but so far as his personal conscious life back behind was concerned, he knew no more about it than does a babe at his mother's breast. After the fat undertaker gets me, I pray, Father in heaven, that, on my awakening, no such loss of memory may be a time when this tendency will spread across the world, breaking down the barriers of language. We look forward to a time when Frenchmen will no longer be "Froggies" to those provincial souls who pass their lives in Suburbs and other London suburbs; a time when Englishmen will not be regarded by the Germans, Swiss, Italians, French and Slavs as wandering dross incapable of saying more than "Yes," "No," "Thank You," and "Good-bye" in any tongue other than their own; a time when Americans will be recognized throughout Europe as civilized and well-informed persons, and Europeans will be recognized as good sports in all America.

Going American is going English; English is going American. There is a general merging, at least in superficial matters, of two distinct civilizations. It is a splendid thing. In fact from this peculiar phenomenon we may draw a great moral and detect in it the seeds of hope. For such, after all, is the only true internationalism—which must spring from a community of interests and a coincidence of tastes. We understand a fellow who wears clothes like ours and who plays bridge according to the conventions which we observe—we understand him, and he understands us.

We understand a fellow who wears clothes like ours and who plays bridge according to the conventions which we observe—we understand him, and he understands us.

We look forward hopefully to a time when this tendency will spread across the world, breaking down the barriers of language. We look forward to a time when Frenchmen will no longer be "Froggies" to those provincial souls who pass their lives in Suburbs and other London suburbs; a time when Englishmen will not be regarded by the Germans, Swiss, Italians, French and Slavs as wandering dross incapable of saying more than "Yes," "No," "Thank You," and "Good-bye" in any tongue other than their own; a time when Americans will be recognized throughout Europe as civilized and well-informed persons, and Europeans will be recognized as good sports in all America.

We look forward to a time when we shall be able to encircle the globe without attracting hostility or curiosity, and when even cannibal kings will find a welcome in our homeland—Hamilton Spectator.

Four army nursing sisters were flown from England to Germany in two R.A.F. Breaking Down of International Prejudices Is A Splendid Thing

Going American is going English; English is going American. There is a general merging, at least in superficial matters, of two distinct civilizations. It is a splendid thing. In fact from this peculiar phenomenon we may draw a great moral and detect in it the seeds of hope. For such, after all, is the only true internationalism—which must spring from a community of interests and a coincidence of tastes. We understand a fellow who wears clothes like ours and who plays bridge according to the conventions which we observe—we understand him, and he understands us.

About Honey

Colour Is Not A Factor In Honey Food Value

The increased use of honey, as a food, for instance, and as a developer of energy for athletes, and an ingredient in home cooking, has not yet dispelled many popular fallacies connected with it. Contrary to general opinion, colour does not affect the food value of honey in any way. Honey varies in colour, from water-white to a very dark brown, according to the kind of flowers from which it is gathered. The difference in colour is caused by certain substances in the nectar of different flowers that absorb the rays of light in varying degrees.

The flavours of honey vary just as much as its colour, and there is no difficulty in finding a flavour to suit the most discriminating taste. As a rule, the lighter the colour of the honey, the more delicate is its flavour. Therefore, when honey is to be substituted for sugar in cooking, it is the light-coloured honeys that are recommended. When honey is used in place of jams and marmalades, each and every colour or flavour has its advocate.

Granulation of honey, as many people seem to think, is not an indication of adulteration. Rather, it is a sign of purity. All Canadian honey granulates sooner or later, depending largely upon the proportion of the two invert sugars it contains. The greater the proportion of levulose to dextrose, the longer the honey will remain in liquid form.

Levulose, or fructose sugar found in honey, is non-granulating and is the sweetest sugar so far found in nature. It is usually the predominating sugar in honey. Dextrose, or grape sugar, is a rapid granulating sugar; and is predominant in commercial syrups. Granulation of honey is hastened by low temperatures and high temperatures retard it.

Honey sold in glass containers is usually sealed when packed, for the purpose of keeping the honey liquid for as long a period as possible. Rapid granulation usually produces a fine texture while slow granulation tends to coarseness. Granulated honey can be brought back to its liquid form by placing the container in water and heating it to 150 degrees Fahrenheit. A higher temperature is likely to darken the colour and drive off aroma and flavour.

Further information on honey will be found in bulletin "Honey and Some of the Ways it May be Used" and may be obtained free on application from the Publicity and Extension Branch, Dominion Department of Agriculture, Ottawa.

Kept Telephone Busy

People Excited Over Idea Moon Was Changing Its Position

Astronomers are not like premiers and police chiefs who sometimes have to be reassured by the fact that they may snatch a little sleep. But the other night Dr. H. Spencer-Jones, British Astronomer General, had to have his telephone removed altogether before he could rest. At a meeting of the Board of Visitors at Greenwich Observatory he had announced that the moon is moving off its calculated position. It was further off its course, as prescribed by calculations of astronomers, than at any time since 1680. When the world got about, half of England wanted Dr. Spencer-Jones' personal assurance something awful was not about to happen. It was explained that the system of nations had not been sufficiently accurate to calculate exactly the position of the moon in advance. However, it was explained the astronomers could tell where the moon was going to be 20 years ahead within two seconds, which ought to be good enough.

Arctic Broadcast

May Bring Voice Of Arctic To Canadian Listeners

Feasibility of broadcasting from the Arctic to national book-up will be investigated this summer by experts of the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation who will accompany the eastern Arctic patrol which sails from Montreal in July on the steamship Nasopole. It is not the intention to do public broadcasting from the ship this summer but to try out shortwave communication from different points the ship calls at and to make the possibility of future broadcasts in subsequent years to bring the voice of the Arctic to Canadian listeners.

HER LIMBS WERE ALMOST CRIPPLED

Suffered With Sciatica For 25 Years

Those who are subject to sciatica should read this letter from one who suffered for years before she found out how to obtain relief—

"For 25 years I suffered from sciatica in my right side, and I had backaches which forced me to remain in bed for two or three weeks at a time. When I got up in the mornings, my arms and legs used to pain me almost unbearably. One day I heard of Kruschen Salts. I took a bottle of them without feeling much improvement. I tried a second bottle, and that time I felt better. I have kept on taking Kruschen ever since."

"The pains of sciatica are frequently caused by an excess of uric acid in the body. Two of the ingredients of Kruschen Salts are notable for their work in dissolving uric acid. Other ingredients are the salts of the internal organs to expel the dissolved acid from the system."

Little Helps For This Week

The very God of peace sanctify you wholly, and I pray God your whole spirit and soul and body is preserved blameless. Faithful is He that calleth you, who will also do it. 1 Thess. 5:23-24.

Be still my soul, the Lord is on your side; Be not troubled by the cross of grief and pain; Leave to thy God to order and direct; In every change He faithful will remain.

It was no relief from temporal ills the apostle promised. The mercy of God might send them to the stills or to the lions, but it was still His mercy if it but kept them unspotted from the world. It might expose them to insult and wrong, still they received it as mercy if it established them in every good word and work. How many of you are content with such faithfulness as this on the part of your heavenly Father, and is this indeed the tone of your prayers?

Higher Railway Speeds

Stream Lining And Diesel Engines

During the past two or three years railway speeds have been increased in all lands, due particularly to stream-lining design and Diesel engines, although some remarkable records, unimproved of a few years ago, have been made by steam locomotives.

The announcement that the Broadway Limited between New York and Chicago will, with a new locomotive now being built, travel at a sustained rate of 100 miles per hour, is not, in the light of modern progress, surprising. The attempt at such an objective was almost inevitable. The present time for the distance by the Pennsylvania Railroad is 14½ hours, under the proposed schedule this would be about nine hours, the distance being 910 miles.

At present the German State Railways hold the first half dozen or more long distance speed records with Diesel trains, the best being between Berlin and Hanover, 108 miles, at an average speed of 82.3 miles an hour—Stratford Beacon-Herald.

Heavy Flying Boats

Ships Weighing Thirty-Five Tons For Atlantic Air Service

Flying boats weighing approximately 80,000 pounds (about 35½ tons) are being designed for the Atlantic air service, it was learned in London.

The ships, to be built by Short Brothers of Southampton, are expected to be ready for trial flights in 1939. They will have a cruising speed of 180 miles an hour and will be twice the weight of the Calcutta and Cambria, types of flying boat at present being used on Imperial Airways air routes.

The new flying boats will have accommodation for 20 passengers and a small quantity of mail.

Found It Hard Task

Four explorer-students of the Soviet Union plunked the North Polar sea from their ice floe wintering camp and reported by radio to Moscow the fact that the depth of the sea was 14,075 feet. It required three hours of grueling labor to lower the sounding apparatus and twice that long to pull it up again.

Town & District

A son and heir arrived Saturday for Mr. and Mrs. Adolf Guttrath.

Mrs. Messenger of Calgary is visiting her parents Mr. and Mrs. John McLeod.

Mr. and Mrs. Frenge of Brooks were Sunday guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Michael.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Buckley of Springbank were visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Alex. Buckley on Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Bannatyne and Mrs. L. Bannatyne of Calgary were visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. N. McLeay on Sunday.

The many friends of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Renaud will be pleased to learn of their return to the farm east of town after an absence of eight years.

Tomorrow, July 1 is a holiday and judging by statements made a great many Gleichen people will take in the Bassano stampede and sports.

A number of the young friends of Teddy Egles gave a party at the river Sunday in his honor. Teddy is leaving Gleichen with his parents to reside in Calgary.

Mrs. W. P. Evans states that her June rose bush had over 150 roses in the last week or so. This looks like a record around here considering the small bush from which they grew.

There is much joy among the Gleichen taxpayers at present. Last week they received their tax notices, and all that is necessary to do now is to pay up.

Mrs. H. Parby and children are visiting her parents Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Buckley of Gleichen. Many will remember Mrs. Parby as Bee Buckley before her marriage.

Sunday saw many visitors at the swimming pool at North Camp. People were there from all over the country many of whom brought their lunch baskets along.

The strawberry gardens in town are now producing strawberries in abundance. Judging by the number of green berries on the stems many a housewife will be busy for sometime canning.

School holidays have begun. The pupils let us know about it by letting out a substantial war whoop. A lot of the boys state they intend to spend a lot of their time fishing even though they never catch anything.

Men with mowers are busy these days mowing down the tall weeds in town. It is not unusual the way weeds multiply in town. They never show any diminution of supply from year to year.

Miss Morton has resigned her position on the school staff. There will now be a great rush of teachers to secure the position vacated by Miss Morton.

Wallace Smith who is well known to Gleichen people but has been living in Delta for sometime past spent the week end in town. Mr. Smith has been transferred to Bassano where he will look after the Crown Lumber Co. interests there. He states the crops out near Delta need rain badly and that the country hereabouts looks like the garden of Eden compared with the north country.

A very enjoyable tea was given by Mrs. J. A. McArthur at her home last Wednesday in honor of Mrs. H. Parby of Springbank and Mrs. F. H. Allcock of Oliver City, California. Even with a dust storm blowing the ladies turned out in good numbers. After a lovely afternoon of visiting and chatting a delicious lunch was served by the hostess. Little Annie and Tommie Allcock proved very entertaining by what they saw on Uncle Frank's farm.

CARD OF THANKS

There are houses that come into the lives of some, when every impulse of the heart is buried under its weight of sorrow. We stand there today; yet we would find gain expression to the gratitude that wells up from the depths of our hearts as we remember the kindness of those who have done so much to comfort our precious dead, and to brighten for us a starless sky.

THE WHEAT OF WHEAT

By H. G. L. Strang, Director of "Crop Testing Plant"

Gold is once again a matter of grave concern to statesmen. When the price of all commodities fell precipitously in 1929, many governments, against the advice of the best economists, resorted to gold, suspended gold payments, and printed large quantities of paper money in order to make commodity prices rise.

The desired effect was achieved, but economists warned the governments that in consequence the production of gold would become greatly expanded, and that commodity prices and cost of living would certainly rise to high levels.

Governments are now fearful that these forecasts are coming true, and they are talking of reducing the production of gold, and of making it worth less money, so as to reduce in turn the prices of all products, and so of the cost of living.

If this is done, however, many people, wheat producers in particular, will be seriously harmed.

The wiser plan, it would seem, would be for governments not to tamper with gold again, but to redistribute it to the nations that urgently need it, and particularly to remove the present harsh restriction, against trade so that an abundance of goods and products may be made available to all the people. Then all the gold will be needed to support the increased world trade.

Following factors have tended to raise prices: Rust affecting northern U.S. winter wheat area and present in spring wheat area. Wheat has been moved from resuscitation in large area in Western Canada. Fear of too much moisture in U.S. winter wheat for European blending purposes. German purchases considerable quantity of Argentine corn. South African prairie crop in a failure.

Following factors have tended to lower price: U.S. wheat offered in Europe at attractive prices. Broom has reiterated Russia likely to export wheat and barley this summer. U.S. winter wheat harvest again progressing. Light rains received in the Argentine. Most European crop conditions improve.

All outdoors has adorned itself with floral raiment of gorgeous hues, the woods by the river, fields and other places are ablaze with color and beauty. Everywhere the little wild flowers rear their innocent heads, the green shrubs line the roadsides and bursting buds reveal beautiful secrets. To many persons the temptation to destroy these pictures is irresistible. They find no ecstasy in merely looking at nature's summer-time verdure. They must loot the meadows and the hillsides. Their cars home laden with blossoms that are not meant for vases in the home. Nature provides its own vases for these blooms and the flowers that are plucked from their setting become like orphans, miserable, drooping and homesick. Newspapers and nature lovers throughout the land find it necessary to remind a thoughtless public of the consequences of this vandalism. Vandalism it is, for many persons are not content with the flowers, they must take the stem and the roots as well. Eventually of course this means extermination of the flower. That point has been reached in some instances. As nature invites the
